THE STATE LUNATIC HOSPITAL at Harrisburg now contains three hundred and fifty-eight patients, a larger number than at any former period, and full as many as can be suitably accommodated. In view of this fact, the Managers, at the quarterly meeting held last week, instructed the Superintendent to refuse cases of long standing until the number in the House shall be reduced.

The Asylum at Dixmont is proportionately crowded. Nor is there a prospect that the completion of the building will afford relief from the crowded condition of the wards.

There seems to be a growing necessity for a new institution in the northern counties. A proposition to this end was before the Legislature last winter, and was defeated by the opposition of a member from Potter. Since then there have been thirty-nine applications for admission to the Harrisburg house from the counties for which the defeated bill intended to provide.

MR. S. S. COX and other prominent Democrats were reported by telegraph a day or two ago, as being in Washington urging upon political friends the policy of nominating General GRANT for the Presidency, no matter what his principles may be. To this the Cincinnati Inquirer responds:

"There are plenty of soldiers who think that General Grant has already been too highly rewarded for his merits, and who do not believe that all the honors and high positions should be carried off by one man. He now struts about with his three stars and $20,000 a year life position, while thousands of men who did quite as much service are reduced to penury and want. It is a great mistake to suppose that the Democratic conservative men who were in the army are going to run after General Grant, in order to pour still more influence into his lap and to clothe him with still higher elevation. He will get no votes from that quarter. There are hundreds of thousands of people, of both parties, who think that some of these high military dignitaries who have been lifted from obscurity by the events of the war, are putting on altogether too many airs, and becoming too important and inflated. They do not think that all the offices are their property for years to come, and that no language is to be poured into their ears but unbounded flattery and eulogy. The common sense of this people, too, has been disgusted by the extraordinary ovations which have been paid to General Grant, and they have anxiously inquired "upon what meat hath this our Cæsar fed, that he has grown so great?" High as this military despot is in rank, and vast as are his pretensions, we are not afraid to meet him in a popular canvass and to discuss his merits for the position of Chief Magistrate of this Republic. Such a bubble can be easily pricked, and the gas it contains let out."

Most of the Democrats hate so intensely the cause in which General GRANT earned his fame that they will not vote for him for any thing.

WHAT is known as the "Crawford County System" for nominating local candidates, has come to be regarded with favor in other districts, as affording a remedy for some of the evils of the "delegate system," which are hard to be borne. In view of this tendency the Titusville Herald says:

"The Crawford county system works mischief to the party and creates general dissatisfaction among the people. The pretence that it lessens corruption is all a sham. It quadruples the expenses of office seekers, obliging them to visit every town and hamlet, plead their cause, and peddle their tickets. There is quite as much bargaining and trickery in our system, as in the delegate system, and just as mean men get office. There is infinitely more personal defamation and recrimination between rival candidates than under the other system, and the breaches thus made are not often healed but give rise to faction and division within the ranks of the party."

This testimony is worth considering.

WE have elsewhere spoken in commendation of the new Directors of the Western Union Telegraph Company. We have only this to detract from the selection—that no Director resident at Pittsburgh was chosen. The importance of this as a telegraphic centre should have been considered—and we think Pittsburgh should have had precedence to some of the places from which Directors have been chosen.

MR. WADE recently found occasion to repudiate his speech at Lawrence. Mr. Stevens was constrained to deny the conversation he held with a reporter for the New York Herald. These are the latest prominent admonitions to public men to use their tongues discreetly. There is too much gabble on the part of that important class.

THE Republicans of the Representative district composed of Butler, Lawrence and Mercer counties, have nominated for members of Assembly John Edwards, of Lawrence county, David Robinson, of Mercer county, George S. Westlake, of Mercer county, and James T. M'Junkin, of Butler county.

ON SATURDAY, the Conference Committee of the two Houses agreed to a Reconstruction Bill, and their report was adopted. The bill was passed finally and sent to the President. It will be found in our columns this morning, and is substantially the Senate bill.

The Franklin Riot Investigation—No Decision Yet—Protracted Radical Meeting—Registration Resumed.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NASHVILLE, July 13.—The taking of testimony was resumed here to-day in the case of Cowell. It is conflicting and unsatisfactory. The decision of the authorities respecting it has not been promptly.

The United States troops will remain at Franklin until after the election. Troops will be sent to Gallatin to-day.

A large enforced Radical meeting was held at the capitol to-day. Several speeches were made. John Williams, a Rebel Congressman, was invited to speak, but declined, owing to a disturbance.

The registration office opened again to-day, and nearly four hundred voters registered; thirteen were whites.

Philadelphia Saengerfest.

PHILADELPHIA, July 13—The tenth Saengerfest was inaugurated to-day by the reception singers from other cities. Mayor McMichael delivered the address of welcome.

Sunday was the day for the recreation of the Germans in accordance with the excise law, which is in full operation here, was partially suspended. In the German quarters lager and wine were to be had in profusion, and the National Guard Hall was opened at Four o'clock. Nearly forty thousand persons visited the Hall during the day, and there were five or six excursions of the Philadelphia societies in honor of their guests. During the day the Mayor and police promised not to interfere with the Saengerfest even on Sunday. On Monday night a grand concert will take place at the Academy of Music.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

A message was received from the President, and the Senate went into Executive session, subsequently taking a short recess.

THE CONFERENCE OR RECONSTRUCTION.

On reassembling, a message was received from the House, announcing its action on the conference report on the re-construction bill.

Mr. TRUMBULL explained that the bill was substantially as agreed upon by the Senate. It made a new Congress unnecessary in that it materially affecting its character.

Mr. SUMNER thought Congress had not been radical enough. The bill was even worse than the Senate bill, ought to have been sweet away at once.

After considerable debate the Conference Report was agreed to.

YEAS—Messrs. Anthony, Chandler, Cameron, Cole, Conkling, Cragin, Edmunds, Fessenden, Howard, Howe, Morrill, Nye, Patterson, (N. H.) Pomeroy, Ramsey, Sumner, Thayer, Tipton, Trumbull, VanWinkle, Wade, Willey, Wilson and Yates—32.

Mr. JUDD asked what loyal man in the North demanded such an investigation. He regarded the proposition as a reflection on the loyal people of the country.

Mr. MUNGEN disclaimed any intention to reflect on the loyal people of the country, and said that if any high officer of the Government had given as a reason for the non-exchange of prisoners, that he was not going to exchange living men for dead ones, the fact ought not to be investigated.

Mr. JUDD recognized in that statement a development of what the gentleman meant by his resolution. It was an attack on a Union General, and also a Union Congress.

Mr. BUTLER said he a d all connected with the exchange of prisoners in '64, court the fullest investigation.

Mr. INGERSOLL advocated the adoption of the resolution, contending that to refuse the investigation would be to stigmatize the loyal men as the dishonest Union Generals who had charge of the exchange of prisoners than to allow it.

After further debate, the question was taken on the motion to suspend the rules, and the motion was rejected.

The resolution, therefore, not received.

THE ARKANSAS MEMORIAL.

THE SURRATT TRIAL.

WASHINGTON, July 13, 1867.

Joseph Carroll was recalled and cross-examined.

Miss Olivia Jenkins testified—John Surratt was not at home on the night of the assassination; saw him there two weeks previously. The door bell rung, when we were at supper on the evening of the 14th, of April. Miss Anna Surratt answered the bell. A Mr. Wood came in. Don't know of any papers for witness; that was the only time the bell rung. The testimony otherwise corporated that of Miss Fitzpatrick.

David Barry testified—Is now an officer of the Maryland Constitutional Convention; resided near Surrattsville; saw Suaratt there March 20th, 1865; I accompanied him to Port Tobacco and left him at the house. Afterwards I went to Howard's stables and called at Mrs. Surratt's to deliver a message from her son.

Reuben F. Gwynn testified—Saw Mrs. Surratt at Surrattsville on the 14th of April on business; she being a near relation of mine. Had a conversation about some of some land, and came to see about it; witness was a party to the transaction.

J. J. Jenkins, brother to Mrs. Surratt, testified to similar effect.

Bernard J. Early testified that he and Michael O'Laughlin went to the theatre shop on the morning of the 14th of April, 1865, and got shaved. O'Laughlin got on stripped his coat and vest, and combed his hair.

Edward A. Murphy corroborated Early's testimony.

William Farling, former keeper of the Webster House, at Canandaigua, New York, testified a man registered there from Elmira, April 15th, 1865.

Frank O. Chamberlain, present proprietor of the same house, identified the identity of the hotel register on which the entry appeared.

Joseph H. Bradley, jr., testified to finding the register there in the Webster House, on his visit in March, 1867.

Joseph H. Bradley, sr., testified to having had the book delivered to him two or three weeks ago, and that it had not been out of his possession since.

The prosecution having objected to the introduction of the register, on the ground that Surratt might have written his name subsequently, considerable argument ensued, and the Court reserved its decision till Monday, to which day a recess was taken.

CASE OF SANTA ANNA.

Secretary Seward's Reply to the Application for Intervention.

WASHINGTON, July 11—The reply of Secretary Seward, which is a lengthy document, to the application of Dr. Naphegye, for the intervention of this government for the release of Santa Anna and his return to the United States, was given for publication. Secretary Seward demonstrates that the Virginia, at the time of the capture of Santa Anna, was not liable to the charge of being a business as a merchant and passenger vessel, but was chartered by Santa Anna to convey himself and his followers to Mexico on a belligerent expedition; that while at Vera Cruz he was in consultation with the enemies of the then Republican Government, proposed to proclaim him as Commander of Vera Cruz in opposition to the Republican government, and finally left the country for that purpose, went to Mexico with the sanction of President Johnson and Secretary Seward, and that he agreed further to surrender and has been accepted and accepted by both parties, and this under the declaration that he was a senior officer of the United States. The State Department does not disallow or censure, but approves the proceedings of the United States Consul and Commander Rose at Vera Cruz. Mr. Seward also quotes from a letter of Santa Anna's to Consul Iturbide, in which Santa Anna and Commander Rose at Vera Cruz. Mr. Seward also quotes from a letter of Santa Anna's to Consul Iturbide, in which Santa Anna landed voluntarily, and that the Captain of the Virginia protested, not against his capture, but against his landing, and withdrew from the orders of Commander Rose, not to land him on Mexican territory. Secretary Seward concludes by saying that in view of the facts, it seems proper that the Government should wait for further and more definite information before entering upon communications in relations to the complaints of Mr. Naphegye with the Government of Mexico. That nation seems at last to have triumphed over all its internal and foreign enemies, and to have reached a crisis which will leave it, if it may be expected to restore tranquility and to reorganize itself upon permanent and stable basis, either with or without a republican government. Only some great national injury, wrong, or offense, would justify the United States government in assuming a hostile or an unfriendly attitude toward the Republic of Mexico."

TELEGRAPH CASE.

Important Supreme Court Decision in Telegraph Companies Not Common Carriers.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

DETROIT, July 13—An important decision relating to telegraph companies has just been rendered by the Supreme Court of this State, in the case of the Western Union Telegraph Company vs. Carew—appealed from the Circuit Court. Carew telegraphed to Baltimore for forty cases of oysters. In the transmission of the message, it is alleged, he received four cases instead of forty. The message was written on one of the company's blanks, with the usual printed matter, containing the conditions on which messages are taken for transmission. The Circuit Court held that the telegraph company were liable for the damages suffered by Carew, treating the company as common carriers. The Court in Error holds that the conditions, unless his attention was particularly called to them. The Supreme Court, reversing the decision, holding that the telegraph company are not common carriers, and that they have a right to limit their liability by contract, considering their liability in the impartial transmission of messages by them; that wherever the limitation of responsibility is printed in conspicuous letters, "it is stated to be sent on the annexed conditions," the sender by signing the message adopts the conditions, and is entitled to the benefit he needs them or not. It is his own negligence if he fails to notice them.

INDIAN AFFAIRS.

The report of the Commissioner of Indian affairs, in reply to the Senate resolution, places the number of Indians now at war with the United States, in the North, at one thousand six hundred warriors, being the same who perpetrated the Fort Phil Kearney massacre. REPAIR OF GUNBOATS.

The communications transmitted to the Senate yesterday from the Department of the Interior, relative to the Indian Commissioners appointed to inquire generally into the subject. The results of their investigations have been published, and the documents contain but little not already made public.

Billy Taylor, Commissioner of Indian affairs, in his report on the subject, contends that the Indian difficulties arose from the mismanagement of the Interior Department of the Indians by the Government, and that the difficulties can be easily settled by proper management. He says: "From facts before me, I conclude we can have all we want from the Judiciary, without the necessity of calling out troops on our frontiers and in all our Territorial domains, at a cost of less than two days expenses of the army, and in less than one month instead of two thousand dollars, and in less than one hundred days." He then proceeds to point out how peace may be maintained, simply by doing justice to the Indians and by setting apart and defending from aggression and trespass suitable reservations for all Indian tribes.

It is generally supposed the President's veto will be sent to the House on Tuesday, when the supplementary reconstruction bill will be passed over it and the two branches adjourn.

The "Colored" Question and the Pittsburgh Bar.

Considerable furore was occasioned in the Court of Common Pleas, Judges Stowe and Mellon on the bench, Saturday forenoon, consequent upon the application for the admission to the Bar of Professor George B. Vashon, colored, a resident of the city. Hon. P. C. Shannon moved for the admission, remarking, in support of his motion, that the applicant was a gentleman of high literary and legal attainments. He was a native of Carlisle, Pa. Graduated at Oberlin College, as a Bachelor of Arts, in 1844, and next pursued the study of law for three years under the direction of Hon. Walter Forward, in this city. Having been refused an examination here upon the ground that he was not, according to judicial decisions, a citizen of the United States, he went to New York city. After a rigid examination, he was permitted to practice in the several Courts of New York state. At Syracuse, New York, (after having spent two years and a half in the West Indies,) he was engaged in the practice of law for three years. Since then he has been a teacher in various educational establishments, for the greater part of the time in this city, and is at present Professor of Avery College, Allegheny City.

Judge Shannon read the following certificate:

"SUPREME COURT, GENERAL TERM, January 9th, 1.48

"Present: The Honorable Selah R. Strong, William T. McCoun, and Henry P. Edwards, Justices.

"George R. Vashon having been duly examined and found to possess the qualifications required by the Constitution for admission to practice as Attorney, Solicitor and Counsellor in the Courts of this State, it is ordered that he be and is hereby admitted to practice as Attorney, Solicitor and Counsellor in the several Courts of the State of New York.

"Extract from the Minutes.

"JAMES TAYLOR, CLERK."

Judge Stowe said the application was for the consideration of the Bar. The rules of Court required that the applicant be a citizen of the United States, but was silent as to the citizenship of the State. A man could be a citizen of Pennsylvania, and colored persons were not (yet) citizens of this State. The Supreme Court of the United States had held that colored citizens of the United States, and the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, in application of the kind under consideration, held they were not. In his (Judge Stowe's) opinion, the Supreme Court had no authority to settle the question. It was for the Bar to settle it.

James R. Hopkins, Esq., said: May it please the Court, I think this application should be referred to the proper committee, to make a report to the Court.

Judge Shannon replied that is not the proper course, unless objection were made against the application for admission on the score of moral character, which no one has made. No such objection is made; but it seems the color of the applicant creates the difficulty.

Judge Stowe—I do not object simply on account of color, but I object to any special favor, because the applicant is colored. The application should go to the regular committee.

Judge Stowe said that in an ordinary case, of a white man, when the application was based on a certificate from the Court of another State, it was usual to refer it to the Legal Committee. He would, however, allow, as a matter of right, a rule to show cause why the applicant should not be admitted to the Bar. And in view of the importance of the question involved, whether the applicant was a citizen, and the agreement to be established in the settlement, it might be proper that the Committee should take it into consideration.

The rule was granted, and will be taken up in regular course on the argument list. Upon its argument will be brought up, before a full bench of the Court, the question whether Mr. Vashon is now legally a citizen of the United States.

Felonious Assault.

A difficulty occurred on River avenue Fourth ward, Allegheny City, Friday evening, out of which a number of prosecutions have originated, in the majority of which Charles Stafford plays the role of defendant. Stafford, it appears, had been indulging in frequent and copious potations during the day, and in the evening went to the house of Mr. H. S. Brown, who resides on the street, and demanded of Mr. Brown's daughter, who was sitting on the door step, to see her father. The lady informed him that her father was not in. Not being satisfied with this statement, he assaulted the lady with a tirade of abuse, and threatened to make use of a revolver, which so frightened the young lady as to cause her to cry murder. The assistance of others in the house, several of whom ran out in time to close the door, and prevent Stafford from coming in, the pursuit of which he undertook in his hand. After the door was closed he left, but in a short time returned and broke open the door, and entered the house, and accosted Mrs. B., demanding of her to see her husband, at the same time abusing her and making demonstrations with his revolver, which he still carried in his hand. At this stage of the proceedings some one ran and informed Mr. Brown, who took effect about the side of the head, and had a tendency to check him in his "mad career" until the arrival of Mr. Barr's police, who arrested him. He was taken to the lock-up, and on Saturday morning Mr. Brown made an information before Alderman Barr, charging him with felonious assault. He had a partial hearing, which was concluded in the evening, resulting in his being held in five hundred dollars for his appearance at Court.

Charles F. Shoemaker, a son-in-law of Mr. Brown, residing in the same house, made informations, before Alderman Strain, against Stafford, charging him with the commission of a breach of the peace, alleging that Stafford assaulted him with a revolver and threatened to take his life, and that he threatened the lives of several of his family.

Stafford made information before the same officer against Brown, charging him with felonious assault and battery, alleging that it was Brown who threw the pole which struck him on the head. This appears to us to be decidedly cool, and we think the fellow should be thankful that he got away with his life, after making such demonstrations as he is charged with; but there are always two sides to a story, and the hearing, which will take place next week, will probably throw some new facts, and perhaps give a new phase to the affair. The defendants in both cases were released on bail in the sum of two hundred dollars for a hearing on Wednesday.

UNION REPUBLICAN NOMINATION.

FOR JUDGE OF SUPREME COURT:

HON. HENRY W. WILLIAMS,

Of Allegheny County.

As soon as Mr. H. W. Williams was made the Republican candidate for Supreme Judge, a considerable proportion of the democratic newspapers of this Commonwealth opened upon him their accustomed batteries of personal abuse. They even proceeded so far as to denounce him as unworthy of public confidence because he happened not to be born in Pennsylvania, thus evidencing, whatever they may profess to the contrary, that they surpass in their inmost feelings the exclusiveness of the defunct know nothing organization.

So far not one Republican journal has been found to assail the personal character of Mr. Sharswood. But a number of them have commented decorously on one or more of his official acts. Hereat the democratic journals join in a chorus of objugations. What would they have? They naturally insist that the official conduct of democratic functionaries shall not be reviewed. Judging from the way they discourse, if they had the power they would exempt their friends who hold public places as absolutely from just criticism as Napoleon III. contrives to hold himself and his agents. Fortunately, their authority is not equal to their will. Before they declaim farther, however, at what they are pleased to denounce as the "disreputable manner" of the Republican press in dealing with opinions pronounced by Mr. Sharswood, we suggest they had better bring their course touching the personal character and position of Mr. Williams within the boundaries of common decency.

Mr. Sharswood is seeking a seat on the Supreme bench. It is pertinent to inquire whether in a subordinate judicial capacity he has expressed opinions prejudicial to the stability of the national finances, and tending to increase the peril and uncertainty of all business classes. No amount of bluster can stop investigation into this matter. Indeed, the tempest raised may well be taken as conclusive proof that this is a point which deserves probing.

On Friday we published a communication signed "Manufacturer," stating that in fixing the rates of freight, the railroads centering here discriminate in favor of Eastern manufacturers. Other correspondents have since written to us making similar statements. We are hence led to suggest that the Judiciary Committee of the Senate is charged with the duty of investigating all complaints of this character, so far as they implicate Companies chartered in this Commonwealth. That Committee can be convened in this city or elsewhere, and compel the attendance of witnesses. Mr. Thomas L. Bigham is its Chairman, and our people can have no doubt of his disposition to do them justice in the premises. Why seek a newspaper discussion, which can have no practical result, when the best possible course is open?

The Judiciary Committee can conduct the investigation so as to get out all the facts, and if the allegations now made are correct, can show whether the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is responsible therefor, or whether the Western Railroad Companies are answerable, or whether the evil is due to those systems of water transportation which extend from New York to St. Louis, one by way of New Orleans and the other by way of Buffalo.

It seems to us that "Manufacturer" and his fellow complainants, should invoke the aid of Mr. Bigham and his Committee. What say you, gentlemen?

OUR BOOK TABLE.

Curious Myths of the Middle Ages. By S. Baring-Gould, A. M. Boston: Roberts Brothers. Pittsburgh: Sold by Kay & Co.

The object of this volume is to recount a dozen of the most remarkable myths or legends of the Middle Ages, and to trace the mutations they have undergone, until now, when they have faded from the popular belief, leaving scarce a trace behind. The legends selected are representatives of a large class. They relate to a Wandering Jew, Prester John, the Divining Rod, the Seven Sleepers of Ephesus, William Tell, the Dog Gellert, Tailed Men, Antichrist and Pope Joan, the Man in the Moon, the Mountains of Venus, Fatality of Numbers and the Terrestrial Paradise. Students of medieval history may question whether others might not have been advantageously substituted for some of these; but that is a matter of taste about which it is useless to cavil. The purpose of the author is excellent, and he has admirably developed it. His design is to show how prevalent credulity, in those days of ignorance, created an unreal world, and peopled it with spectres. An interesting and instructive retrospect is afforded of those ages in which the super natural, to the common apprehension, was constantly projected into the plane of the natural. What fears agitated the men and women of those times, when nothing seemed to rest on the basis of fixed and absolute law, but good and bad spirits, of superior powers, made sport or havoc of terrestrial things, creating prodigies on all sides, which baffled comprehension, and mixing the seen and unseen, the substantial and unreal, in an incredible witch-dance, may now readily be conceived and appreciated. Under this aspect this volume has a peculiar value.

The Jesuits in North America in the Seventeenth Century. By Francis Parkman. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. Pittsburgh: For sale by Kay & Co.

Commercial adventurers of hardiest courage and the most restless enterprise have penetrated to few far-away and hidden regions of the globe without finding the Jesuits were there before they arrived. Superficial observers may attribute this wonderful activity, this joyful exposure to hardships and perils, and this increasing labor and responsibility to low ambition or to base desires, but those who have studied this problem, divested of narrow prejudices, and from hights of philosophic observation, unanimously arrive at a different conclusion. It would be absurd to say that no earthly considerations had contributed to this marvellous propelling force. Upon close scrutiny alloy is found in the purest metals.

The present object of the author is to adequately portray the efforts of the earlier French Jesuits to convert the Indians. At a period when the English colonists clung feebly to the shores of the Atlantic, these religious adventurers plunged into the very center of the continent. Whatever records these men have left of their labors, observations and conclusions have been carefully explored and the results reduced to order.

The writer proposes to supplement this volume by another devoted to the discovery and occupation by the French of the Valley of the Mississippi.

An Historical Sketch of Sacredotal Celibacy in the Christian Church. By Henry C. Lea. Philadelphia, 1867: J. B. Lippincott & Co., 8 vo. pp. 600. For sale by Davis, Clarke & Co., 63 Wood street Pittsburgh.

Thousands will rejoice that the valuable researches of Mr. Henry C. Lea, in regard to celibacy in the Christian Church, have been given to the public, and that he abandoned his intention to reserve his valuable acquisition for his own personal use, instead of publishing the information for the benefit of the world. This gentleman has already demonstrated his ability as a scholar by the publication of a work on "Superstition and Force." This contribution will greatly add to his already fine reputation as a writer. The author has traced the celibacy of the priesthood to its source in the voluntary abstinence, and the notion that the holiness of the priest was increased, and his services rendered more acceptable to God, by abstaining from the marriage relation. The subject is traced from its inception in the Catholic Church to the present time. He gives a succinct history of the Christian Church from the times of the Primitive Church in the Second Century, through all its stages until the recent developments in regard to the legalizing of the marriage of priests in Italy in 1860—1866. Historical facts are given to show that when the celibacy of the clergy was enforced by the laws of the Church in the middle of the fourth century, as indispensable, the flood gates of evil were thrown open, and social vice was encouraged, patronized, and not discountenanced. Our space will not allow us to state the arguments and authorities given to sustain the assertion that an enforced celibacy is fraught with monstrous iniquities. The mechanical execution of the work reflects great credit on the publishers for their excellent taste.

Painter's Camp. By Philip Gilbert Hamerton. Boston: Roberts Brothers. Pittsburgh: For sale by Kay & Co.

Racy sketches of camp life while painting landscapes in England, Scotland and France. The old scenes are observed and described under new conditions, and by one well qualified by natural gifts and professional training to detect the points of freshest interest. While there is a slight dash of the writer's vocation, there is not enough of this to annoy the general reader. During these days of summer heat, these pages have odors from the heather, from mountain tops, from rippling or placid waters that is quite refreshing.

Old England: Its Scenery, Art, and People. By James M. Hoppin, Professor in Yale College. 12 No. 408 pages. Publishers, Hurd & Houghton, New York. For sale by Kay & Co., No. 65, Wood street, Pittsburgh.

So much has been written about "Old England" that many care very little about reading a book of travels in that country. But Prof. Hoppin has departed so completely from the usual course, and has presented his observations in such a graceful style, that we are not disposed to seek after any defects, if there be such in the work. The motive assigned to induce our people, who go abroad, "to spend more time in England than they are commonly inclined to do, and to see that country more thoroughly, instead of making it a stepping-stone to the Continent," is demonstrated in this publication. The work glows with graphic destriptions of men and things, and there is an elevated moral tone running through its pages, which mark the scholar and the Christian. The grand old cathedrals and their history, are linked with olden times, and themes of richest lore, and it is not surprising that Prof. Hoppin should devote so much space to such topics. The enterprising publishers have brought the work out in fine style.

Modern Inquiries: Classical, Professional, and Miscellaneous. By Jacob Bigelow, M. D., late President of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and late a Professor in Havard University. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. Pittsburgh: Kay & Company, 65 Wood street. Pp. 579

This valuable work is what it professes to be, a collection of papers on Classical, Profesional, and Miscellaneous subjects. Most of these productions, written or spoken, have appeared in various forms heretofore, and at the time, were singularly noted for their boldness of thought, and innovations on the stereotyped opinions of the day. It is a scholarly production, and will be prized by professional men, and even ordinary book readers will find much in this collection to instruct and entertain. Age does not diminish the value of some of the papers, and we think the publishers did good service to the public in publishing them, and in such beautiful style, both as to paper, type and binding.

Pickwick Papers. By Charles Dickens, People's Edition. Complete in one volume. 882 pages, 12 mo., finely illustrated. Publishers, T. B. Peterson and Brothers. Philadelphia. For sale by Henry Miner, Nos. 71 and 73 Fifth street.

The volume before us, is well printed on white paper, large clear type, and compactly, as well as tastefully bound in muslin covers, and is the first of a series of publications of this widely known and popular author. It is well named, the "People's Edition," not only because of its convenient form and mechanical execution, but for its very low price, $1.50 per volume. The whole of Dickens's tales will be published by this firm in twelve of these monthly volumes. Much might be said of these inimitable papers, and of the grapic pen pictures of the characters delineated, but the contents are so well known by book readers, and have been so frequently presented in different forms to the public, that it is wholly superfluous to more than commend this capital edition of Dickens' works to our readers.

The Last Chronicle of Barset. By Anthony Trollope, author of "The Claverings," "The Small Farm at Allington," etc., with illustrations. New York: Harper & Brothers, Publishers, Franklin Square. Pittsburgh: Henry Miner, 71 and 73 Fifth street.

This genial writer has won an enviable reputation in this country, as well as across the water, for his admirable works, such as "The Claverings," and other novels of decided merit. Like Thackeray and Dickens he has hosts of admirers, and a degree of popularity that is fast making his name a household word. "The Last Chronicle of Barset" is told in a straight forward, winning style, carrying the reader along with almost imperceptibility, such is the charming, vivacious style of the author. It is conceded by some that Mr. Trollope has succeded to Mr. Thackeray's place as a novelist, and his ability to occupy the position assigned him is fully established.

Pelham, or Adventures of a Gentleman. By Sir Edward Bulwer Lytton, Bart. The Globe Edition. With Frontispiece. Complete in one volume. Boston: Phillips, Sampson & Co. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott & Co., Publishers. For sale by Davis, Clarke & Co., 63 Wood street.

This widely known and enterprising publishing establishment is doing for the numerous readers of Bulwer what other houses are for Dickens and Thackaray's admirers. Pelham is one of the favorite publications, by this distinguished author, and has had a wide circulation. The elegant and graceful style of Bulwer is too well known to need any words from us. The publishers have brought the work out in an attractive form. It is printed in long primer type, on tinted paper, and neatly bound in green morocco cloth.

Thackeray's Lectures. The English Humorists. The Four Georges. Complete in one volume. Illustrated. Pp. 449. Harper & Brothers, New York. For sale by Henry Miner, 71 and 73 Fifth street.

The publication of these lectures in such an elegent and convenient form, will remind many of the tide of popular feeling which rose in the cities when Thackaray delivered most of these inimitable lectures. They were so unlike anything in the lecture form, previously given to the public by public lecturers. The graceful style of the distinguished humorist, spoken as no other one could, rendered them exceedingly popular. The volume opens with Swift, then come in succession, Congreve and Addison, Steele, Prior, Gay and Pope, Hogarth, Smollett and Fielding, Sterne and Goldsmith. These are followed by a lecture, entitled, Charity and Humor. Then the Royal Georges of England conclude the series. The book is printed on white paper, clear type and handsomely bound.

My Gift. By Cyrus Elder. New York: N. Tibbals & Co., Publishers. For sale at ——— Pittsburgh. Pp. 104.

This little volume of poems is dedicated to Hon. Daniel J. Morrell, of Johnstown, Pa., and contains about thirty pieces, the longest, "The Tragic Tale," occupying nearly ten pages. The others are short and on varied subjects. The author is quite young, and makes his first venture in book form. This collection indicates that Mr. Elder has poetic talent, and if it is properly cultivated he will develop the power conferred upon him to weave thoughts into lines, that will enchant the reader and give him an enviable name. Some of the poems possess decided merit, and particularly those on domestic scenes, and bearing on the late war, are worthy of special attention. The entire collection is quite creditable, and should encourage the author to cultivate the poetic power, with which he has been so richly endowed, to the fullest extent.

College Life: Its Theory and Practice. By Rev. Stephen Olin, D. D., L. L. D., late President of the Wesleyan University. 12mo. pp. 336. Harper & Bros., New York. For sale by Henry Miner, 71 and 73 Fifth street, Pittsburgh.

Dr. Olin was a man of peerless thought, massive, which he presented in his public efforts with great power. At the time these discourses and lectures were delivered, their publication caused an impression upon the public mind, because of the masterly manner in which he discussed the topics in hand, of no ordinary character. Those who were privileged to hear this master-workman, speak of him in rapturous language, of the pleasure and instruction they derived from his public efforts. There are in all seven Lectures and four Baccalaureate Discourses; and, it is truthfully said, their style throughout is distinguished by breadth of thought and scholastic elegance. Many will thank the Harpers for their publication in such an attractive form.

Bench and Bar: A complete Digest of the Wit, Humor, Asperities and Amenities of the Law. By L. J. Bigelow, Counsellor-at-Law. With portraits and illustrations. 12 mo., pp. 354. Harper & Bros., New York. Publishers. For sale by Henry Miner, 71 and 73 Fifth street, Pittsburgh.

A work of this kind should, and doubtless will, find great favor among all classes of readers. Members of the Bar and those elevated to the Bench, will enjoy the humor, wit, and repartee, with which the book sparkles throughout. It is just the kind of publications that are sought after now-a-days, and the compilation of works of this character are growing in favor with the public generally. The author gives us a rich fund of incidents, culled from sources within the reach of but few persons. The compilation must have cost the author immense labor. But he has executed his task well, and he merits the thanks of his brethren of the legal profession, and, indeed, of hosts of non-professional readers.

Statutes and Treaties of the United States, Revised to the present session of the Thirty-ninth Congress, 1866-1867. Edited by George P. Sanger, Counsellor at Law. Published by Little, Brown & Co., Boston. For sale by Kay & Co., 65 Wood street, Pittsburgh. In paper covers.

This document possesses unusual interest these momentous times, because of the valuable information therein contained. In this compact and convenient form, and so admirably arranged for reference, it should be in the hands of every one who feels any interest in public affairs.

The Bankrupt Law, with Orders and Forms. New York: Harper & Brothers. Pittsburgh: Henry Miner, 71 and 73 Fifth street.

This mammoth concern were early in the field with a valuable work on the Bankrupt Law, and other valuable information relating to this subject—prepared by Mr. James, and now they give in this pamphlet of eighty pages, the orders and forms of proceeding in Bankruptcy, as promulgated by the Supreme Court of the United States. The Act of Congress is also given in full. The value of this publication is self evident, and should be obtained by all who need authentic information.

The Philadelphia Press remarks that it is a curious but gratifying coincidence that the opposing candidates for the Supreme Court are both exemplary members of and elders in the Presbyterian Church; one of the New School, and the other of the Old School branch. Both of these gentlemen being undoubted and undoubting Calvinists, will, of course, cheerfully acquiesce in their respective fates as already fixed. We just venture to suggest as a matter for profitable reflection and meditation that it is not probable that the same men was predestined to deliver an opinion against legal tenders and to be a Supreme Judge in Pennsylvania.

MR. W. MILLER SAYS:

Pittsburgh, September 8, 1866.

Messrs. Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Gents—I think I am only doing the part of a good citizen when I testify to the great benefits received by me from the use of your Bismarck Bitters during the last five years. Sojourning for a time in the oil regions, in 1861, I had a severe bilious attack, which, in connection with dyspepsia, left me in a very weak condition. I was advised to try your Bitters, and, having procured a bottle, found that they worked like a charm upon me, eight pounds having been added to my weight in the space of one week, and now I feel warranted to have been fully restored to my former health, so much so that I have been induced to use them every summer since that time. As a tonic, I think they are invaluable.

This summer, having had a similar attack, (and as before, needing no other,) although under the treatment of an A No. 1 physician, I was again obliged to have recourse to the old Bitters, and with the same good result, having gained six pounds within a few days. I partake of a half dozen bottles a few weeks since, and purpose to use them regularly as a tonic.

Wishing you every success, I remain,

Yours, gratefully,

WILLIAM MILLER.

PINUS CANADENSIS.

A tree which is abundant in Canada, Nova Scotia, and the more Northern parts of the New England states, and is also found in the elevated and mountainous regions of the Middle States, and abounds in medicinal virtues. Dr. Swett, of Boston, has prepared a medicine from the sweet inside bark of the pine tree, called POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND, which is the most effective in all debilitated states of the system, and in all diseases of the kidneys. It acts like a charm in all diseases of mucous membranes, enabling them to resain their lost tone and energy. It will be found well adapted to all these diseases, where Buchu has been tried and failed. It is likewise very useful to chronic coughs, and an infallible specific for old and debilitated cases of asthma. Many persons who at first only took a bottle of this medicine, to try, afterwards came back and got a dozen, or half dozen, which effected radical cures of diseases of the bladder and kidneys of years standing.

Diabetes, a disease that has been looked upon as among the incurables, is immediately relieved by it. Notice the certificate of Asa Goodale, which appears in this list.

The United States Dispensatory, speaking of the pine, says: "It is prescribed in humors of the chest, and other diseases of the urinary passages; in piles and chronic inflammation or ulceration of the bowels, in chronic catarrh of the bladder, and in various forms of rheumatism." It is evident, by the following, that the virtues of the pine are concentrated in POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND, and where there is red and white sediment. It can be taken without interruption to one's usual occupations; and instead of sickening, produces a bracing, healthy power of endurance, and cheer. Price $1 per bottle or 6 for $5.

THE COURTS.

Court of Quarter Sessions.

[SATURDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.]

This Court met on Saturday for the disposition of cases in which sentence had been deferred.

LAWRENCEVILLE CASE.

Frank J. Guth was first called up. He had been convicted on two indictments, for burglary and larceny, in breaking into and robbing the dwelling of Adam Streib, in Lawrenceville, and stealing a saddle from another party, also resident in the borough. Property identified as stolen from Streib's house, and also the saddle, were discovered in the dwelling of the prisoner, in the borough, and in possession of his wife. On the possession satisfactory to the jury had not been given. There were circumstances, however, connected with the case which induced Judge Mellon to entertain the belief that the prisoner had been made the "scape goat," others more guilty than he having escaped. It had more guilty than he prisoner was of industrious habits, and this was considered as much in his favor. He was sentenced to two months imprisonment in each case.

THE LIVING CASE.

In the case of Robert Beers and John Brewerton, convicted of maliciously inflicting grievous bodily harm, a nominal sentence was pronounced. It was conceded the conviction could not be sustained, on the legal question raised, (which was noted on the trial of the case), but no objection being made thereto, the defendants were required to pay the costs.

ROBBED A DRUNKEN MAN.

Patrick Bannon, the man who robbed Peter Ackerman, at the Grain Elevator, was next disposed of. Ackerman was drunk, so much so that he was not sensible of the fact of Bannon relieving him of his pocket book and watch. Bannon denied his guilt, protesting that he intended taking care of the money and watch until Ackerman got sober. Patrick had been idle, he said, for some three months, being unable to get work in the city, but, of a sudden, he got flush of money. Was considered by the Court thought this a strange circumstance. Patrick was sentenced to jail for six months, regretting that the Work House was not yet completed in order that the prisoner might thus be enabled to spend that length of time profitably.

A FORGER SENTENCED.

Henry J. Salisbury was next sentenced. He had pleaded guilty of forging a check for forty-five dollars on the Mechanics National Bank, drawn in favor of Wm. B. Ewing, and signed by J. W. Taylor. Prisoner had nothing to say about the matter. The fact was represented that he had been before the Court previously, on a charge of false pretenses, and although he got off without punishment, it did not seem that he had profited by the escape, as the time of committing the forgery he was a law student with Mr. Ewing. He was sentenced to the penitentiary for two years.

THE SKIFF THIEF.

Peter Sennett, the individual who caught adrift in the Allegheny river a skiff belonging to Kirkpatrick, Bro. & Co., of the Ninth ward, and refused or neglected to return the same when told who was the owner, for which action he was convicted of larceny as bailee, was sentenced to the county jail for one month.

AGGRAVATED ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

Wm. Hanlon, convicted of an aggravated assault and battery upon Owen Shannon and "strongly" recommended by the attorney of the Court, was sentenced to pay a fine of ten dollars and to undergo thirty days imprisonment in the county jail.

RAN THE GAUNTLET.

Patrick McCallister was convicted of an assault and battery upon a colored man, who "ran the gauntlet" of several steamboats at the wharf getting knocked down and brutally abused upon each of them, finally taking refuge in a "mold." The particular battery by which McAllister was helped, the jury believed occurred on the steamer "Jim Reese," and they so found. Sentenced to pay a fine of $20 and the costs.

MULDOON AND MATTER.

James Muldoon and James McGooden, acquaintances, a short time since quartered in the Seventh ward, the effect of over indulgence in whisky and beer. The latter received in Muldoon drawing a dagger and sticking it into McGooden's skull. The disturbance appeared to have been brought about by McGooden (or at le st he assisted in bringing it on,) and it also seemed Muldoon had an "old grudge" to work out. They brought cross-suits, Muldoon seemingly prosecuting McGooden in order that he (Muldoon) might have a "sweep" on the side of the latter's head. He resisted the conviction or both—Muldoon of unlawfully cutting, wounding and stabbing, and McGooden of assault and battery. Judge Mellon overruled a motion for a new trial in the case of McGooden, and remarked that he regarded the application as improper in the case. McGooden was culpable to the extent of contributing to the quarrel, and was sentenced to pay a fine of ten dollars and the costs. Muldoon's case, however, was more serious; he had used a deadly weapon. He was sentenced to one year's imprisonment in the Penitentiary.

AN ALIBI FAILS.

Thomas Sweeny was convicted of a most cowardly and brutal assault and battery on an old man named Peter Woods, a few Sundays since. His friends denied his guilt, and upon assuring the Court they could prove an alibi, that Sweeny was not the person who committed the offense, the Court postponed sentence from time to time. The alibi not only failed, but clear proof was adduced of guilt. Sweeny was sentenced to pay a fine of twenty-five dollars and to undergo two months imprisonment in the jail.

COSTLY LITIGATION.

The children of the Hirsh and Watkins families, in Lower St. Clair township, got into a regular quarrel, and a boy belonging to the former seems to have caused serious trouble to both, in the way of paying costs. The magistrate, however, should come in for a share of censure, in "spilling up" cases. Mrs. Watkins first prosecuted the boy, John Hirsh, for assault and battery on her two children, the magistrate taking separate informations, and following this were cross-suits for surety of the peace, all concerning what might properly be called one transaction. The boy was convicted on one charge of assault and battery, and acquitted on the other, the costs being divided. The Court sentenced him to pay the costs in the case in which he was convicted, and a fine of five dollars—quite severe punishment, the parents being poor, and the costs unusually heavy from the number of witnesses called. In the surety cases, the parents were required to enter into recognizance in the sum of five hundred dollars to keep the peace for one year.

Summer Fashions—Bonnets, Dress Fabrics, Costumes, Lace Mantles, Shawls, &c.

(From the New York Evening Post.)

No striking novelties in materials have been imported during the past month, and there has been little change in styles. The millinery trade, which was brisk during the pleasant days of June, is now somewhat dull, and there is a corresponding decline in business. The Paris exhibition has attracted an unusual number of families, and it is said that many rich and elegant costumes have been prepared to be worn there.

BONNETS.

Bonnets have become a trifle smaller, but have as much trimming as when they were larger. Some of the small bonnets are so lavishly ornamented that the appearance is completely reached, flowers and imitations of fruit, that they are not easily described. One of the prettiest white straw bonnets worn this summer has the edge trimmed with a very narrow band of black satin, a spray of delicate French flowers at the side, a black lace veil, strings, and ribbon strings, medium width, edged on both sides with rich black lace. These strings are not to be tied, but crossed and fastened with a cluster of flowers, or a pretty ornament. In old times straw bonnets were worn for economy, and the bonnet, if "old fashioned," was cleaned and worn the second season, but this can only be done now with some of the English and Neapolitan straws. The delicate French straws, of straw, and all of the fancy braids cannot be renewed, and if exposed to a sprinkling are as much as lost. Those made of crape illusion or other gossamer fabrics.

Bonnets made of tulle, crape and lace are more worn than ever, and are much prettier, having more of a light, airy appearance, and seem better adapted to the warm, bright days of midsummer. The bonnet is the prevailing shape for tulle and crape bonnets, and for reception and full dress occasions are much admired. A tasteful mode of trimming this bonnet is to edge it with a wreath of green leaves, with occasionally a delicate tinted flower, scattered from among them. The strings are of black velvet, edged with white blonde, and crossing upon the chest are fastened with a rose of blonde, with a flower in the centre corresponding with the flowers in the wreath. One of the prettiest bonnets worn is of white crape, edged with small roses, some of the leaves around them having a golden tint; the strings are of white tulle and fastened with a half-opened rose.

There is a new style of fanchon in straw. It has a narrow, upstanding brim, and though not much worn, is pretty when tastefully trimmed.

In round hats there is no material change. Most of these have narrow brims, and are trimmed with scarfs of tulle. The latest style of round hats have no brims, only a crown with a soft edge, from which depends a fringe of marabout, or it is wreathed with flowers and leaves.

DRESS FABRICS.

Silk fabrics were never more beautiful than this season. It is said that nearly all that are worn in Paris are brocaded with some contrasting color, and the freshness and brilliancy of the flowers almost rival the beauty of the flowers they represent. These styles have been imported, but not yet in large quantities, and are much sought after, as they make elegant dinner dresses. A heavy black silk is decorated with fern fronds, and brocaded in gold, with bouquets of richly tinted flowers. Most of the colored grosgrains, silks, are brocaded with clusters of flowers or fern fronds, an elegant pattern of this material, having a white ground with a satin stripe, and oval medallions, in the centre of which are shaded bouquets of flowers shaded in all the natural colors. Some of the gray and ecrue silks, so fashionable now, have small flowers sprinkled over them, or feathers of different colors, or flights of little birds. The thin gauze silk material is also beautiful. A white ground has clusters of flowers, the colors softly blended, while colored grounds are brocaded with white or in darker shades of the same color.

COSTUMES AND MODES.

An elegant suit recently worn was made of rich black silk, and elaborately trimmed with embroidery of black silk and jet. The sack was short in front and back, and quite long at the sides in the form of sashes, which were embroidered, and the whole edged with silk and jet fringe. The skirt of the dress had long train-shaped sashes to the sides formed by the embroidery and edged with fringe. The sleeves were full and short, falling away from a closely fitting coat sleeve beneath. Another was of chenoa, with clusters of brocade violets. There was a jupon, or petticoat, quite long, the upper being rounded at the sides of the front breadth, was ornamented with a band of purple silk, put on with the saying of an online embroidery stitch. The underskirt had bands put on lengthwise with the same stitch, to loop upon each side over the bands of the purple silk running around the under one.

An elegant carriage dress of black silk was embroidered with black and white silk, and trimmed with a new style of white guipure lace.

In the early part of the season most dresses made of thin material had one wide flounce at the bottom of the skirt, but the latest style now is to have several narrow flounces. Dresses for receptions or grand occasions are made narrow and long, the train longer than when worn by the belle. Large crinoline and crinolettes are much worn, the trimming that follows the sexes.

For traveling, sailing or walking the short dress en suite is and will be generally worn. The latest mode of cutting these is entirely without plaits, sometimes so narrow as to appear quite close. But this style it is thought will not long prevail; the gored skirts with a few plaits are far more graceful, and the ladies generally will not cast them aside for a la or style that has nothing to recommend it. The loose sack with flowing sleeves is usually worn with the short dress.

For young girls short suits of white mohair, or any other soft materials, are quite fashionable. The trimming may be of violet, blue or other contrast of silk to suit the taste. Poplins is much worn for travelling suits, but it soils much sooner than mohair in unpleasant weather. The gray sheene poplin trimmed with gray satin is much admired.

A walking suit for a young miss at school was observable recently for its simplicity and utility. It was of linen material, the skirt goring and untrimmed, the short sack ornamented with white, looked graceful and cool, and a round hat with medium brim and covered with a tulle scarf, completed the costume.

EACH MANTLES AND SHAWLS.

Lace mantles and shawls are more fashionable this season than ever. Both black and white are much worn, and are more costly than they were a few years since. However, the shawls are larger, so that they can gracefully be barnoussed, a popular mode of wearing them. Burnous made of black and white grenadine, and of black or white gaze de Chambery are worn, and are considered distingue. The Marie Antoinette is becoming popular. Its full round, and crossing in front ties at the back in round ends resembling a sash. It may be made of any light fabric to match the dress, or of white muslin or black lace or silk.

A change from the short sack is the pelerine cape, with long ends descending on the skirt, front and back. It is something of a novelty; and is quite convenient, as it can be easily arranged.

The parasols now in vogue in Paris are elaborately decorated. The most attractive, it is said, are those of gros grain silk, trimmed with white or black lace. Some parasols have a fringe of feathers; others are entirely covered to resemble foliage having a fringe of green leaves, with a cluster of roses at the top and long ends of ribbons.

The hair is now generally combed back from the front, and the chignon, though much smaller, and worn, not on the top of the head, but high at the back; two or three curls depending from it over the face.

Among the useful inventions now before the public, which are of great benefit to the ladies, is the skirt-supporter and shoulder-braces. They are made of plastic, which keep the shoulders back without unpleasant pressure. To this are attached straps with hooks, on which the band of the skirt is suspended. Formerly ladies were too much burdened with the weight of their clothing, and very often impaired their health and ease, should wear them or something similar.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The First Grand Concert was given on July 4th. It was a grand success. The room in Hall was filled with the elite of the city. The audience appointed a committee of nine of the leading Bankers and Merchants, to examine the corresponding numbers to the tickets and the Register Book, to see that all is correct before making the grand distribution of prizes at the last Concert, on the 24th of July.

A gift with every ticket. The grand Distribution of presents will be conducted on the Mutual Benefit principle. A pro-rata Distribution of Profits to Ticket holders. Capital, $1,287,185. Tickets $1 each. A present with every ticket.

A present to the number of presents given below, will convince the most skeptical of the great advantages which will accrue to all who participate in the enterprise; and the commercial and financial standing of the managers and bankers thereof, will, they hope, prove a sufficient guarantee of the fairness and impartiality with which everything in connection with it will be conducted, and that the fair seats of ticket holders will be most carefully guarded. In fact it is the desire of the managers to conduct every transaction for the mutual benefit of those who choose to become ticket holders, and scrupulously to avoid any and everything which could in the slightest degree emanate from the Book-Making fraternity. FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, SATURDAY, July 15, 1867.

The New York stock quotations to-day, as received by Mr. P. R. Mertz, were as follows: Gold, 139¾; Eighty-one bonds, 109¾; Five Twenties, 1862, 111¾; Five Twenties, 1864 109¾; Five Twenties, 1865, 109⅝; Ditto new, 108¾; Seven Thirties, 108⅝@107½; Ten Forties, 103¾. Stocks—Erie Railroad, 79¾; Cleveland & Pittsburgh, 91¾; Chicago and Rock Island, 94¾; Chicago and Northwestern, 44¾; Chicago and Northwestern preferred, 67¾; Fort Wayne Railroad, 101½; Michigan Southern Railroad, 79¾; New York Central, 103½; Reading, 103¾.

Gold opened strong at 139¾, and closed at 139¾ bid. The increased demand of specie for shipment to Europe and the effort of foreign bankers to cover their drafts immediately have a tendency to keep the premium up on gold, which is likely to continue until the shipments cotton commence and imports are reduced. It is remarkable to see the country flooded with foreign goods at a moment when nothing but the strictest economy can save us from bankruptcy. Government securities have declined a fraction, especially the currency bonds; the demand is light in the interior where money commands from 12@18 per cent. for very good, and even choice business paper. Railroad shares are unsettled, and the beginning of next week may see some violent fluctuations; the tone of the market is however to an upward movement. Mining shares are lower.

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH CO.—We notice that at the annual election held by this Company on the 10th inst. there has been a winnowing of the old board of directors. Without pretending to know why certain members of the old board have been left out of the new, and without intending any disparagement to them, we owe it to the commercial community, with whom the lines of the Western Union are a necessity, and many of whom are shareholders, to declare our opinion, that a better set of men than those who compose the new board could not have been found in the whole country. From the city of New York, such men as Wm. Orton, W. E. Dodge, D. N. Barney, J. J. Cisco, E. D. Morgan, (ex governor) E. S. Sanford, Moses Taylor, Legrand Lockwood, and others known throughout the land for their wealth, enterprise and prudence. From Rochester, the veteran telegraphers H Sibley, O. H. Palmer, Isaac Butts and B. R. McAlpine have been selected, and Messrs. J. Butterfield, of Utica, Ezra Cornell, of Ithica, Geo. Walker, of Springfield, Mass., A. Gaither, of Cincinnati, and N. Green, of Louisville. This new board has given assurance of fitness for their important duties by elevating to the presidency of the Company Mr. William Orton, late United States Commissioner of Internal Revenue, a gentleman of sterling integrity and of remarkable administrative ability. With such a list of eminent citizens in the board and an executive head as distinguished for system, energy and administrative genius, it is safe to predict, vast and complicated as are the affairs of this great corporation, that they will be managed wisely and well.

—As to the effects of the existing plethora of the loan market, a great contrast is seen in the stock exchanges in Europe and in this country. Here the monetary ease has stimulated speculation, given an impulse to the public confidence, and, if we be prophets of good crops, has caused the prices of railroad securities to recover to some extent from their long recent depression. In England, although the rate of interest is down to 2 per cent., yet, in consequence of bad management on the part of several railroads and bad legislation in Parliament, the railway markets of London and Liverpool have been greatly depressed, sales being pressed and prices falling heavily.

—On the 10th proximo, seven hundred notes to the extent of $30,000,000 fall due and their mode of payment becomes of interest to borrowers. If the Treasury pay them in coin, it will probably put itself in funds, by selling gold, and drawing its balances with the National Banks closely, two operations not favorable to rampant speculation. Should the Department, however, issue the 3 per cent. certificates in exchange for them, there will be no vibration in the money market of consequence. With Five Twenties at 109¾ for the new issue, it is the plain duty of Mr. McCulloch to pay every dollar as they mature. The crop advices from all sections of the country are of the most favorable character, and it is now almost certain that the harvest of 1867 will exceed in quantity and quality anything ever known. This bright prospect may be darkened, but such is the appearance of things at present, taking the concurrent testimony of careful and experienced judges.—N. Y. Tribune.

—Money is working easier, partly from a better supply of currency, partly from the continuance of a moderate demand and partly from a generally improved feeling in financial and commercial circles. People have come to the conclusion that the water mark has been reached in the line of depression, and are making preparations for the future, accordingly. The tone of business is therefore, in marked contrast with that which was a few weeks ago. When the turn took place in the stock market we remarked that the buoyancy there exhibited foreshadowed pervading changes in the general markets. It is not to be expected speculation will take hold of the latter as it has of the former, but the indications are that we shall have a revival of business that will insure an active fall trade. In rates of interest there is no change, and the bearing is to the inside figures on good names. We quote 6@12 as the range.—Cin. Gazette.

Wool in Michigan.

We can hear of but little change except at Kalamazoo, where wool sold more readily and at better prices on Saturday than for some time past. Some of the first quality brought 45 cts. The medium price is about 43c. At Niles yesterday 4000 lbs were taken at an average of about 40c. At Ionia, yesterday the price went down to 42c. This is the second rise and fall in Ionia. The price started at 40c, ran up to 50@52c, thence down to 46c, afterward up to 48c, and down to 42c. At Ann Arbor, Mack & Schmid have taken 15,000 lbs, at an average of 41½c. At Chelsea, 42c is the highest. At Saline the range is 40@42c, with very little doing. At Owosso, 40@42c is paid. Hillsdale and Hudson, 40@45c.—Detroit Post July 10.

Grain in Europe.

From a survey of the various grain countries in Europe, the conclusion is arrived at that the prospect for future supplies is very cheering. In England and Ireland, and no deficiency is apprehended. The stock of flour in Paris is the largest ever held, amounting to 850,000 cwt. Considerable shipments are making to England direct from France, but the main dependence of the British isles is in the Black Sea ports. The last harvest in the South of Russia having been very abundant, the exports from that quarter are expected to reach two million quarters. Scarcity is, therefore, out of the question.

The Flax Crop.

We understand that the new crop of flax is now being cut along the line of the Illinois Central Railroad, and it will not be long before the new seed will be in the market. The crop this season is a heavy one, and there is every prospect that it will be secured in good order. We do not hear of any prices named for new seed; old crop sold to-day, on 'Change at 2,25 per bush.—Chicago Republican.

STOCKS.

Stocks are strong. The market has been largely oversold on extravagant rumors of the past two days, and the tendency now is strongly upwards. The contest between the Erie and Boats on Erie continues. RIVER NEWS.

The towboat Wild Duck left St. Louis for Pittsburgh on Friday last.

We extract the following items from the Cincinnati Commercial, of Saturday:

The Rob Roy, for St. Louis, and the Leonidas, for New Orleans, leave to-day, sure. Capt. J. C. Dowty, in company with Admiral David Gibson, and others, leave St. Louis in to-day's train. We suppose they will be present at the sale of the steamers of the Atlantic and Mississippi Steamship Company on Monday. The Mollie Norton will be sold by the United States Marshall on Monday. A public meeting was held at Chattanooga on Wednesday to take action relative to the improvement of the Tennessee river, and the establishment of a daily line of steamers between Chattanooga and Knoxville. The Westmoreland left for Louisville last night with over two hundred pleasure excursionists, who will spend the time in music, dancing, feasting, &c. They expect to arrive here early on Monday morning.

The Deer Lodge, which broke her shaft near Decatur, has returned to St. Louis. A new shaft will be immediately placed on board, and the Lodge will make another start for Fort Benton on the 19th inst.

The Guidon, Captain Bissell, has reached Benton, and will lay there until the latter part of August.

The Paragon has made the run from Yellow Stone to St. Louis in eight days and six hours.

The General term of the New York Court of Common Pleas has decided that a steamboat is liable for property stolen from the state-room of a passenger, the latter having the key of his room in his possession at the time of the theft.

The tug Magnolia, belonging to Fenton & Co., of Ohio, left there Sunday morning for Dyersville, Iowa, with 400 barrels of salt on. When within seven miles of her destination, she struck a snag and sunk in twenty feet of water. The cargo was insured, and the tug can be raised.

We clip the following from the Louisville Courier: In the month of September, 1865, the steamer Kenton put off on the Louisville wharf a box of household goods, consigned to N. & W. J. Smith, and valued at $200. When the box was put off, the clerk of the Kenton took the bill of lading himself to Messrs. Smith, and notified them that the box was at the levee. Before the boat left the same clerk notified them the second time. The box and the box had not been called off. On the third day Messrs. Smith sent down for the box, but it was missing. A few days after they instituted suit against Moorhead & Co., the agents of the Kenton, for the value of the missing property. The case was in the Court of Common Pleas, Judge, P. B. Mitchell, who decided for the defendants, and further said that the goods having been put on shore, the delivery of the bill of lading to Smith was a mere livery. The case is of general interest to the steamboat community.

It is currently reported on the Upper Mississippi that Captain R. C. Gray, Vice President of the Northern Line of steamers, and an old Pittsburgher, is soon to take a plunge into the sea of matrimony.

The mate, Thos. Poyner, of the Northern Belle, who was recently killed by the falling of a boat at Dubuque, was aged 24, and single. This amount of misery has been dealt over to his widow, residing at Madison, Wisconsin.

The Hawkeye State, recently run 441 miles down stream in 36 hours.

The Paducahites seem to think that Captain John Cannon slighted them by not repairing the E. E. Lee and Quitman at that point, instead of Round City.

The bar-keeper of the Wisconsin had his trunk "burglarized" to the amount of $100, now Memphis, while en route for Saint Louis.

Steamboatmen, says Tuesday's Memphis Bulletin, report considerable mortality at various points along the river from a disease resembling cholera, which carries off victims rapidly. The health of the city, however, is comparatively good; there have been a few isolated cases of sporadic cholera, but nothing in the way of epidemic, and we see no cause whatever for alarm.

There is a dark skinned, thieving individual who is making the rounds, representing himself as the marine editor of the St. Louis Democrat, and that paper has not. He stands about 5 feet 8 inches, dresses tolerably well, and has a tongue when worksen a privet, without cessation, except he turns in to sleeps in dry good boxes. A short time ago he "borrowed" money here, since when he has been "at work" elsewhere. A few days ago he turned up and attempted "to work" on one of the attaches of the Enquirer, but failed. Keep a look out for him, for he is a base counterfeit.—Cin. Gazette.

The true channel depth along the lower Ohio is fully six feet or more, but the bars have not been "cut out" thoroughly as yet, and are not well defined, as they will be in another week. As the river recedes, and its limits become more circumscribed and confined to the old channel, it gradually cuts a channel through the sands, and a good pilot, a week hence, would find even a better channel depth than at present, even if the water should fall a foot or more in the meantime.

A report made in December last has just been published in Fort Wayne, Ind., by Col. Merrill, Superintending Engineer of the Ohio river improvements on the Ohio river. It shows how rapidly the business has increased on the river and increased, now that saving the diversion of a large amount of trade and travel to railroads. This is accounted for by the increase of population in the States bordering on the river, which, in 1860, was in 6,000,000, while in 1870, the entire population west of Pennsylvania and east of Kansas and Wisconsin will exceed 20,000,000. The most wonderful increase, perhaps, has been in the coal trade. In 1844 the shipments of Pittsburgh coal were 2,500,000 bushels. This now amounts to about 40,000,000 bushels, and by 1870 must be added the shipments on Ohio river coal which are very large and steadily increasing. Another item of increase is in the salt trade in this business, Mr. Roberts estimates that it will double in ten years.

The Cincinnati Commercial of Friday, says: The steamer Graham and Yellowstone burned at St. Louis on Wednesday night, were insured in Cincinnati offices for $200 each, as follows: Ætna for $100 each on the Graham; Hoskinson's and Eureka offices, and the George W. Graham for $1,000 in each of the following offices: Enterprise, Union and Equitable.

Capt. John W. Tobin closed the contracts on Wednesday, at Louisville, for the New Orleans and Cincinnati trade. She is to be 290 feet long by forty feet beam, and 9 feet hold. She is to be constructed to carry cotton, and very strongly; to have high pressure engines, each thirty inches in diameter, with nine feet stroke; wheels to be ten feet length of buckets; seven boilers, each twenty-eight feet long, and forty inches in diameter. She is to be ready for the trade by December.

The Dubuque Herald intimates that Captain R. C. Gray, Vice-president of the Northern Line Packet Company, and Miss Lizzie Bostwick, of Jo Daviess county, Illinois, will be married to a lady in Minnesota. The Herald says Capt. Gray holds Minnesota schemes that steamboating regulates.
